Family Engagement and School Readiness: Navigating Conversations About COVID-19 Vaccine and Mask Requirements.

Supporting the needs of children and families during the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic is not an easy task. The effort requires staff and families to work together to keep programs open and help children and adults stay healthy while programs do their best to continue meeting the needs of families. As Head Start and Early Head Start professionals, we are committed to working alongside families to celebrate strengths and, as they are ready, support any challenges they may be facing. Together, we ensure that children continue to learn, grow, and build healthy relationships. One important way we show this commitment is through conversations with families about the program's COVID-19 vaccine and mask requirements.

Saving For Retirement

DECADE-BY-DECADE GUIDE FOR RETIREMENT

Saving for retirement is something we all need to think about. It can be a challenge saving today for tomorrow's enjoyment. It is never too late to make progress and never too early to get started. Hitting key financial milestones at early ages can get you in better financial shape for retirement. According to a Transamerica Retirement Survey, 44% of retirees cite declining health that requires long-term care as their greatest fear. 36% say losing their independence and 32% say outliving their savings and investments are retirement fears.

This Week Question, TEST YOUR KNOWLEDGE

Who was the first African American Major League Baseball player?

Submit your answers by sending an email to:
lpineda@childstartinc.org by Thursday February 17, 2022.

Last week's trivia answer:

Do you Know who was the second Black men to obtain a Ph.D. from Harvard in 1912?

If your answer is Carter G. Woodson, you are CORRECT!

Woodson, who was a Harvard graduate, was born in Virginia in 1875. Son of former slaves, he worked in the coal mines of West Virginia just to make a living, but education was his true calling. Woodson would go on to get degrees at the University Of Chicago and Harvard University. In 1912 he became the second black man to obtain a Ph.D. from Harvard, W.E.B. DuBois being the only other to reach this educational achievement.
